

Basic Boilie Making Instructions

Easy step by step guide

1. Put all your dry base mix ingredients into a large bucket with the lid on or use a large air tight plastic bag, blow into it and seal, then give it a really good shake to mix it well.
2. Next take your eggs, break into a large mixing bowl or bucket and gently whisk until all the yolk and white have mixed in together.
3. Now add any other liquids you require, liquid flavours, oils and colouring etc. and gently stir them into the eggs.
4. Add your dry base mix ingredients into the eggs a bit at a time and stir with a fork to create a thick paste. Now get your hands in there and start to knead, adding more dry ingredients until you have a dough that doesn't stick to your hands - something that resembles playdough.
5. Roll out the dough into sausages either using your hands, or a sausage gun.
6. Now either place the sausages onto a rolling table if you have one to make your BOILIES or break small pieces off and roll in your hand.
7. Finally boil your BOILIES a few at a time in a chip basket lowered into a pan of boiling water for approximately 90-120 seconds depending on their size, then air dry for 48 hours.
8. Bag up and freeze or use once rehydrated.
